

Socrates

Plato was Socrates' disciple. Plato wrote the dialogues of Socrates' philosophy, so the only known work of Socrates is from Plato's early writing as Socrates was an oral decipher.

Plato

When Plato was 40, he created the Academy in the outskirts of Athens. Aristotle was Plato's best student and Plato wrote many dialogues between Aristotle and him.

Aristotle

Aristotle was summoned to Macedonia by King Philip II to tutor his son, Alexander the Great.

Alexander the Great